In the 2020 norms, only effortful test scores (i.e. 10% or fewer rapid guesses) were utilized. By removing non-effortful scores from the sample, "noise" is removed from the data which leads to a more clearly defined target population for achievement and growth norms. This is an important change, given that high rates of student rapid guessing can bias student achievement estimates, often tables for such assessments typically consist of a finite, and usually small, number of score-to-percentile tables specific to content area and grade. In contrast, the target population for the MAP Growth norms does not assume that students are all maximally engaged at testing. Only test scores of test-engaged students attending a U.S. public school from Fall 2015 through Spring 2018 are ...
